

Privacy Notice

1. Introduction

Preservation of personal privacy is important to the Northamptonshire Industrial Archaeological Group (NIAG).

2. Information about You

NIAG collects personal information from you when you become a member of the Group. This may include your name, title, physical address, email address, telephone numbers and, if appropriate, bank account and name.

3. Lawful Basis

The lawful basis for processing this information is the Legitimate Interests of NIAG and its membership. It allows NIAG to send its publications to its members and to others on request.

4. Our Use of this Information

Your personal information will be used to process your requests, to provide you with our publications and to provide you with any other information relating to the Group's activities and interests.

NIAG will not share this information with other members or with any other organisation without your express permission.

5. Security

NIAG will take reasonable precautions to prevent the loss, misuse or alteration of the information provided.

6. Other Information

If you would like us to correct or update any information, then please email NIAG at treasurer@niag.org.uk.
